

Made in America – ABCNews.com

March 4, 2011

Are you inspired by our "Made in America" series to buy products made in the U.S.A? These websites are devoted to American companies or to sourcing where the everyday products you use are from. Use the links below and our interactive map to find companies near you.

www.USAonly.US

Launched on July 4, 2010, USAonly lists companies that make their products here in the United States. With emphasis on smaller, mom-and-pop companies, the website currently features 320 companies. The website is interactive and keeps track of how many employed Americans are represented by the companies listed.

Etsy.com

Etsy.com is a community of artisans and artists that sell their products in an online marketplace. Products in categories like jewelry, furniture, and "geekery" are available for purchase. Each description links to the artisan's profile, where you can learn more about their designs and career.

Sourcemap

The MIT Media Lab created Sourcemap as a database and tool for everyone to use to find out where all the products in their everyday life come from. From Mangoes to Levi Jeans the program allows you to trace the origin of what you buy and also add the source information for other products you have researched.

MadeHereInAmerica.com

MadeHereInAmerica.com is an easy-to-use directory of consumer products that are made in the United States. Company descriptions include what percentage of products are made in America.
